Budget cuts worry rocket officials

Many officials worry that the budget cuts of the NASA of the state will affect the state's space program.

The two officials were Dr. C. H. Hedges, director of the state's space program, and Dr. R. L. Hedges, director of the state's space program.

With the coming of the new year, NASA had an appropriation of $3.7 billion, but for only $3.2 in fiscal 1967, $222 million less than requested. "This continues falling off in years ahead is probably one of the major management problems at this time," Hedges said.

He pointed out that for this year NASA had an appropriation of $3.7 billion, but for only $3.2 in fiscal 1967, $222 million less than requested.

In general figures the director stated that the state's space program had dropped from about 100,000 to 75,000. In this area H. Douglas Levey, president of the Space Division of Chrysler Corp., reported his company's engineering capability now to be the same as two years ago. However, Tuesday at Memphis he did say that unless his company got a contract for additional Saturn boosters by this fall there would be some reduction in employees of the New Orleans plant.

Work on the last of 12 Saturn IB boosters is scheduled to start late this year.

Dr. Mueller reported a real competition with Russia in the space program and "since they started two years ahead of us, we could expect that they would be ahead of us. I am speaking not just of a race to the moon but of a race to the moon and beyond."

He added that Russian "lunar activities are as large or larger than ours. They are attacking the whole front, but in general, our progress has been good in the past year."

The Saturn IB has the designed capability of orbiting 49,000 pounds of payload, which could be raised to perhaps 100,000 by use of strap-on motors. The Saturn 5 should be capable of lifting a 285,000 payload.

Urging that Fred Wagner, the bus's architect, be contacted by Edward P. Orin, president, asked for and got a resolution requesting the rapid completion of the new bus terminal at the north county location.

Trustees, after listening to both mechanics, declined to pass on the automotive checks held since the last session on the basis that some cost errors may have been made by the various suppliers.

Building progress was evidenced when trustees authorized payment of $48,917 to Roy Anderson, Jr., of Gulfport, their general contractor, $12,345.63 to Sunset Wall Works of Pass Christian, for work at Pearl Harbor and Gulfport, and $663.15 to Wagner for architectural fees and services rendered in respect to wall drilling.

Anderson requested that construction to 16.5 per cent complete.

A delegation from Lumberton and Kila appeared for the second straight time on representing of J.C. Harrell as principal of Hancock North Central.

Blanchard complained to the board and the delegation why he had not recommended Harrell for re-appointment to this post.

Subsequently joining the order were B. M. Repley, Mrs. W. H. Hedges, Hugh M. Evans, R. F. Robinson, Carl, Edward Gillis, R. C. Carrero, Richard Carrero, Dr. L. J. Reilly, Mrs. J. J. Ryan, Malcolm Moore, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph E. Vigor, Manuel G. Caraball, James C. Senter, J. W. Buchanan, Mrs. A. Baldwin Wood and Floyd A. Wallis.

Rubio Griffin, attorney for the supervisors, argued that there was nothing to continue because the land under the water belonged to the state and the beachfront property owners' access to the water would still be there after the berm is constructed. Jacob Guice of Biloxi was counsel for the property owners.

The Corps of Engineers had expected to begin early this month with dredging on the sand berm. However there was no word at press time as to when negotiations would take place for bids on the work.

Repairs under federal disaster legislation must be completed within one year of the disaster. In this case Sept. 10, 1964. The Corps had said it would have to begin May 10 in order to finish by that date.

said berm is to be dredged may be no closer than 55 feet from the top step of the existing seawall and fillings must penetrate to a minimum of six feet of the original Bay sand.

Three state aid road projects were scheduled for a total of $116,000, following the recent inspection with B. L. Broome, district engineer. Approved was $90,000 for widening 2.25 miles on the Joe's Bayou-airport road in Beat 5; resurfacing 2.65 miles on the Kila-Pinyuns Road in Beat 4 for $6,000, and a new bridge and approaches over Dard Tiger Creek on the Flaming Road in Beat 2 for $20,000. Agreements have been made with Marshall R. Young Drilling Co. and Coast Electric Power Assn. for relocation of pipes and lines for the rights of way involved.

Breaume requested excellent maintenance on state aid roads in Beat 1, 2 and 5 with a great deal of improvement in 3 and 4.

In answer to the delegation's complaints about Leonard B. Fuller, elementary principal at North Central, trustees, on a motion by Blum, seconded by trustee Eric Larson of Kila, agreed to have Fuller appear at their next meet to explain his position.

The appointments of Miss. Beasts Geller and Sally Levey to the Charles B. Murphy Elementary School in Pearl Harbor as recommended by incoming principal R. B. Broland, were approved.

Street fix-up...

Ingann Street.

A hot mix will be used with sand added later for a sealer, Landardale reported.

Plans for resurfacing the city street as a whole are still in the talking stage, the merchants were told. The administration discussed with them various financing possibilities, including on a front footage assessment basis.

There is not yet anything concrete about widening Main Street, they learned, largely because more detailed plans are required by the U.S. Postoffice in regard to its property there.

Landardale said the group was satisfied it was informed as to what the city has on the drawing board.

7:30 p.m. next Thursday in the college dining room.

Waveland considers boat harbor

Waveland, Miss., decided to seek a meeting with the city's Mayor and Commission Council to discuss the matter.

Two bids were received for painting and of the municipality's water tower. One by Standard Painting Co., Memphis, was for $8,524. Waveland Tank Co., Bay St. Louis, Ala., submitted a bid of $14,000. Mayor Garfield Lester was authorized to enter into a contract for $8,524 with Waveland Tank Co. if the firm submitted a performance and liability bond, not specified in its bid.

At the request of Norman Hays, Jr., council agreed to write Federal Housing Authority its willingness to consider maintenance and operation of utilities in a proposed subdivision in the area considered for annexation by Waveland. Initial facilities for water, gas and sewerage would be done by the unnamed developer to the specifications of the town.

Saves 2 lives, Bishop confirms 95 to receive honors awards

A married man with two children will be honored Tuesday for saving the lives of two men overcome by gas fumes while working in a manhole in the 300 block of Ballentine Street last March.

Ray Brooks, of Bay St. Louis and New Orleans a foreman with George Consolidated, water system installation contractors, was inspecting lines in the vicinity and, upon peering into a manhole discovered Jimmy McIlwain, 27 and Elgin Hampton, 48, employees of C. O. Osburn, cover line contractors, overcome by an accumulation of gas.

Quickly organizing rescue work Brooks entered the manhole and supervised removal of the two men. Both recovered after treatment in Hancock General Hospital.

In recognition of the event George Consolidated has already given Brooks a cash award. At 10 a.m. Tuesday in City Hall, the Travelers Insurance Company will present him with a suitably engraved electric watch.

Saturday

City
Echoes

Miss Linda Joyce Bilbo became the bride of Glenn Carroll Stockstill, son of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Stockstill of Leavenworth, in a double ring ceremony at 10 a.m. Saturday at Church of the Annunciation at Kiln. Rev. Kenneth Brown was celebrant.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Bilbo of Kiln, was given in marriage by her father. Mrs. C.J. Mautray of Kiln was her sister's matron of honor.

Thomas Stockstill of Leavenworth, brother of the groom, was best man. John Nicaise of Kiln, ushered.

A reception took place later at the Bilbo home where Mrs. Shelby Holden and Mrs. Nick Nicaise, Jr., assisted in caring for the guests. The bride's table was covered with a lace cloth and centered with the wedding cake. White carnations and greenery were used in decorations.

After a brief honeymoon in Alabama, the couple is at home in Kiln. Mrs. Stockstill is associated with Coast Electric Power Assn. and Mr. Stockstill is with J. Ray McDermott, contractors, in Harvey, La.

Here from out of town for the wedding were Mrs. Carol Mont of Biloxi and Dr. and Mrs. John Kestler of Belle Chase, La.

Teen Times

As the big day, graduation, draws over us, the pace of living for local boys and girls becomes accordingly, kind of school town. Such as the junior-senior prom at Bay High, St. Joseph's annual Spring Festival and Christ Episcopal's spring celebration took place Friday and Saturday and Bay High's cheer to rehearsal daily for their version of Gilmore and Sullivan's comic opera, The Gondoliers. Both bands, Bay High and S.J.A.-SSC will present school concerts and these are just a few events on the busy schedule.

Bay High's gym was transformed into a special wonderland for the prom Friday night carrying out the theme, Here in the Misty Moonlight. Piji White, who has always been not only one of the most popular girls around, but also one of the sweetest and friendliest, reigned as queen and football star, Dick Montoye, Jr., was selected king. This year, for the first time, just about every girl wore a long formal, proper gloves, etc. and the boys were handsome in either tuxedo dark suits or dinner jackets. As always the Pizza House and Drive-In were full after the dance and, as it was a very special occasion, many crossed over the bridge and went to Biloxi for food, and some, more dancing.

selection was made on the basis of dependability, leadership. (Cont. on Page 4-B.)

Dianne Wingo and Kirk Stephenson were crowned at the Christ Episcopal Day School affair, its theme being, Plantation Picnic. The weather man was cooperative as near cloudless skies made the out-of-door affair one of the most successful ever.

Seniors have just about all selected the colleges and universities in which they will further their education. Ellen McDonald will attend Stephens;

Suz Porter has decided upon Southern as has Linda Penrose who plans to register in June. Another local boy who has gone on to greater things is Bob Hamilton, Bob, who picked up much of his sailing know-how at Bay-Woaland Yacht Club, skippered the Annapolis crew to victory in the second

Despite a few minor inconveniences, and we say the word "minor" loosely, such as big, hungry mosquitoes, (Mr. Chris Brown, please take special) clouds of dust that would put a mare in the Sahara desert to shame or public of water to deep, we were just too many missing persons haven't been reported by anyone who just couldn't care less. Life in our happy little town goes on, and on and on. Anyone who isn't suffering from some kind of respiratory ailment just isn't in. . . . .

Oh well, we were taught that vicissitudes, and we looked that way and the definition is perfect, for everyone's current tribulations, were just a part of life, but we never expected them to be so constant.

Lunch, with hats on menu

Now for a somewhat more pleasant subject. We refer to the lovely luncheon and hat show given under the supervision of Mrs. Leo Seal, at Bay-Waveland Garden Center last Wednesday noon. Much credit goes to Margaret (Mrs. Wanda) Oles and her helpers who prepared the delicious food which included delicious-looking in crisp poultry, cranberry, fruit and so forth. French style green beans, hot rolls and a very fancy cake and several desserts, each individually instituted into a luncheon.

Mrs. Robert Flindley, club president introduced the attractive panel of judges and Vivian (Mrs. James) McDonald, who acted as emcee, introduced each contestant and explained each contest. Military and supplied detail on how the hats were made. Largest number of entries were in the original category and exhibiting a winner was quite a problem as all of the creations were not only becoming, but also fashioned from some most novel materials. First prize went to Frances (Mrs. A.E.) Veight, who used palm-leaf leaves on her base with trim of foliage of varying shades of green. Mrs. Harold Powell won much applause for her hat made from feathers and a small baby doll. Margaret Oles was also called back so they could admire her day May changes, and Mrs. J. A. Tognazzi's pastel powder hat made from a single pink carnation was also much admired. Green (Mrs. Barbara) Barker's pink hat complemented her dress of the same shade. Pat (Mrs. Ben, Jr.) Hills had a spectacular (well) copper, she wore a hat of day pink roses. Mrs. Phyllis Daniels' small hat of bright pink scarlet roses took first place in the pretty hat judging and Margaret Oles' hats had made from cardboard, paper, twigs and bedecked with various trinkets, real carvings, oysters, pearls and the like, was in the funny class. Irene (Mrs. Ben) Hills, used masses of gold flowers, explaining that if the youngsters could cover their faces with hair, she had the same privilege with flowers. Virginia (Mrs. Fred) Wagner, who is always plugging for the party of her choice, cannot go unmentioned. . . . .

Notebook jottings

Housebreakers

It is reported that Mrs. Leo Seal, who lives in the Garden Center, has decided to move to a new home. . . . .
